Small guy, big feeling for music

Arnd von der Linde aka Arnd van Lendt was born on September 11th, 1973 in a little village near Cologne in Germany.

As a child he was introduced to music by listening to the 80's hits of his sisters, knowing early on that electronic music was his favourite style.

That's how he got to amass a huge vinyl collection of more than 10.000 12" inch vinyls - ranging from ABBA to Zappa-Studio 54 originals, black music, disco grooves, the complete 80's and of course house, house and more house.

House rocks school

During his time at school, van Lendt was on the turntables at some high-school parties. The legendary high-school parties with Arnd became popular very quickly, and within no time other schools were looking for him and his beats.

At the prom in 1999 the head of a club called "Tanzhaus" gave van Lendt the chance to rock this club for nearly six years as resident dj, helping to establish it's cult status.

While studying law in Cologne, van Lendt took part in one of Germany's biggest dj competitions at a club called "Hippodrom" in Hennef. He won it, and the much sought after prize of a trip to London, which included the chance to play at London's famous "Hippodrome" club. However, he rejected a year contract with "Hippodrom Hennef", which was also offered as part of the prize, preferring the opportunities of the exciting Cologne-clubscene.

At home in the house-Zone

Before becoming resident dj of "Lucky B's" Thursday "clubnight" (alongside well established Cologne house djs "Clouse Caspar" & "dj Disco Inferno"), he rocked the party people of "Neuschwanstein". The "club night" was unmatched for years as a house music trendsetter, and van Lendt established initial contacts with internationally reknowned djs.

For years van Lendt rocked "Blue Monday" at "Alter Wartesaal" - a club well known far beyond Cologne. Later on he became resident at "Apollo" and had cameo appearances at clubs like "Tiefenrausch" and "Fifichoo".

For quite a while now, van Lendt's home is "Nachtflug"-regarded as one of the top addresses in Cologne's vibrant clubscene. He rocks the club every Tuesday with the "6 vor 6" Party, alongside dj teddy-o, who is one of the top black music dj's in the region. You can listen to him leading the "I love Fashion"-Party (every Friday), every second Saturday of the month at "Booty-Moves" Party and at the "Gang-Bang"-Party, where "Nachtflug" and "Fifichoo" open together on three areas.
